ONLINE INCOME WITH A SYSTEM

Understand where this course can help.

Your expertise is a valuable starting point. Turning it into a clear offer takes a defined audience, a useful solution and a process that helps people understand their next step. This learning path brings those decisions together.

The planned English edition adapts the existing German course. Across 30 lessons, the approach combines strategic thinking with practical tasks: build an initial version, test your assumptions and translate the next steps into a 90-day plan. English access is not yet available; pre-reservation is free and non-binding.

Who the learning path is designed for

- Independent professionals who want to turn their expertise into a clear offer.
- Consultants and service providers who want a more coherent digital customer journey.
- Entrepreneurs who want to test an initial idea before committing substantial resources.

Typical starting situations

- Many ideas without a clear priority for the first offer.
- Separate online activities that do not form a coherent customer journey.
- Recurring work without a clear framework for useful automation.

What you can work towards

- A specific positioning statement and a focused core offer.
- An outline connecting attention, trust, purchase and onboarding.
- Relevant uses of AI and automation with human quality control.
- A personal 90-day plan for testing, implementation and improvement.

ONLINE INCOME WITH A SYSTEM

Clear phases for practical progress.

These phases summarise the publicly presented course content. Each connects a clear focus with concrete tasks.

DAYS 1-7

Foundation and positioning

Clarify your goals, resources and the people your offer should serve.

- Map your skills, experience and existing resources
- Define a reachable audience and a specific need
- Develop clear positioning and a credible personal story

DAYS 8-14

Offer and validation

Turn your ideas into one focused offer and test it before overinvesting.

- Compare business models and potential offers
- Describe scope, process and pricing logic clearly
- Gather evidence and real market feedback

DAYS 15-21

The digital customer journey

Connect visibility, explanation, trust and a useful next step.

- Organise your website, discoverability and key information
- Plan explanatory content and a coherent funnel
- Connect qualification, appointments, purchase and onboarding

DAYS 22-30

Automation and execution

Make recurring work manageable and define your next practical steps.

- Use AI and automation responsibly
- Build a rhythm for content, measurement and follow-up
- Understand financial foundations and create a 90-day plan

The course is currently available in German. A professionally produced English edition is planned when there is sufficient demand. Pre-reservation is free, non-binding and does not provide course access. Price, timing and final scope will be confirmed before any purchase.

YOUR PROTECTED LEARNING SPACE

A clear framework for practical work.

Daily lessons, active exercises and your personal working notes support one another. The content follows a structured learning journey.

Example from the existing German course: navigation, a daily lesson and learning progress. This image is not evidence that an English or Spanish course edition is already available.

01 Learn step by step

After activation, day 1 is available immediately. Further lessons are released daily in a clear sequence.

02 Work with the material

Assignments, templates and AI prompts support your own implementation. Progress tracking and notes help you keep an overview.

03 Return to what matters

Each course profile lists its access period. The current offers are designed as one-time products without automatic subscription renewal.

This language edition is planned. Pre-reservation is free, non-binding and is not a purchase. Final scope and availability will be communicated before a later buying decision.

TURNING EXPERIENCE INTO USABLE STRUCTURES

Technical thinking. Practical implementation.

Lukas Günther Teissl

Academy creator · IT, AI & automation

I develop digital systems and connect technical implementation with clear, understandable processes.

My courses apply that way of working to your own projects: understand the task, build a clear structure, review decisions and organise recurring work. The Academy guides you through this process while leaving responsibility for your own decisions with you.

What guides my approach to teaching

- A clear connection between each topic and a practical task.
- Traceable decisions and realistic expectations.
- Technology supporting a deliberate, responsible working process.

MAKE AN INFORMED DECISION

The important answers.

Are the free PDFs the complete courses?

No. They are public course introductions. Paid lessons, workbooks and protected materials remain in the Academy.

How do I pay for a course and how long is access available?

You purchase your chosen course with a one-time payment, with no recurring membership fees. Each course profile lists its duration, lesson count and access period. The Academy confirms the current terms before purchase.

Do I have to purchase both courses?

No. Each learning path is a separate offer. Begin with the course that best addresses your current task.

How does purchasing work?

For available editions, the linked Academy page shows the current price and payment route. After payment, access is checked and activated, and the access information is sent to you.

Is my chosen language edition available now?

Check the availability information for each course. A free pre-reservation is not a purchase. The price, production schedule and final scope of a future edition will be communicated before a later buying decision.

Can I expect a particular income or investment return?

The courses provide general education and structured ways of working. Your starting situation and implementation affect possible results. No particular income, return or business outcome is guaranteed.

General educational content. No individual investment, legal or tax advice. Consider decisions in the context of your situation and consult qualified professionals where appropriate.

PUT KNOWLEDGE INTO MOTION

Your next step begins with a clear decision.

Choose the learning path that matches the task in front of you. Review the content, language availability and offer in the Academy, then decide how you want to approach your next steps.
